

HELIOS ENERGY AND CH2M HILL SIGN ENGINEERING SERVICES AGREEMENT FOR ROOFTOP SOLAR ENERGY SYSTEMS IN ONTARIO

Helios Energy and CH2M HILL are working together to support a greener Ontario

TORONTO, Ontario, June 2009 – Helios Energy and CH2M HILL are pleased to announce they have entered into a professional services agreement under which CH2M HILL will provide structural and electrical engineering services for rooftop solar energy projects in Ontario, Canada.

Helios Energy is developing a portfolio of rooftop and ground-mounted solar photovoltaic (PV) systems under the Ontario Power Authority's new Feed-In Tariff (FIT) program, a key component of the Ontario Green Energy and Green Economy Act, 2009.

"Helios Energy is proud to have CH2M HILL as our engineering partner in Ontario," said Jarret Stuart, Principal, Helios Energy. "Their strong global reputation and extensive track record in solar PV are a great addition to our local development expertise. The combined experience of our two teams means Helios Energy's clients can be confident in the design, engineering and performance of our solar energy systems."

"It is important for CH2M HILL to work with a partner who has the local understanding needed to successfully develop new projects. Helios Energy has been active in the Ontario solar market since 2006 and has demonstrated its ability to get projects planned, permitted and financed," said John Muller, Sustainable Solutions Manager, CH2M HILL. "We look forward to working together to help Ontario achieve its renewable energy goals."
